it's not just talk...

"Sustained Dialogue brings with it a kind of flavor that draws individuals (that wouldn't normally include themselves in conversations about difference) to the table; it can clearly be credited with building a stronger sense of community at Dickinson College and changing the way people view themselves and others."

Sustained Dialogue Campus Network

"Sustained Dialogue makes college more enjoyable. We all go to school seeking new experiences and people, but often don't like to step outside our comfort zones. Sustained Dialogue... puts 10 or so people of various backgrounds in a room, and through simple communication, creates great friendships. Cultures, religions, and entire lives are shared merely through human interaction. Too often we're too afraid to take that step and truly broaden ourselves. But once we do, our life and the lives of those around us are made stronger."
